

Mosquito Alert:

Since we are having a lot of rain remember to be vigilant to check your property for any containers of standing water. This includes rain gutters and bird baths. Last year the Asian Tiger Mosquito was added as another species spotted in Lehigh County. This small mosquito is a day biter and only needs small amounts of water to breed (even a drink bottle cap can suffice). It does not travel far to feed so if you have an issue with mosquitos recheck your yard for standing water. You can buy mosquito control dunks at the big box home supply stores for bird baths or other areas where emptying the water from containers is too much work. Just place them in the container following the manufacturer's instructions.
